What is the Martinez Fellowship Program?

The Martinez Fellowship Program is TAF's program for early career BIPOC educator support. Our goal is to ensure teachers of color enter the education field and have long thriving careers. The rewards of teaching are endless, but the challenges are also real. The Martinez Fellowship provides a support community, ongoing professional development, and ongoing networking opportunities, all of which are grounded in racial identity development to support Fellows as they navigate the transition from a teacher preparation program to their own classroom.

Program Benefits

The Martinez Fellowship Program provides cohort-based programmatic support for two years. During those two years, fellows have access to:

Professional Development Designed For BIPOC Educators

Like-Minded Community

NWEW Resources

Career Connections

In Our Fellows' Own Words:

“Connecting with other fellows has made me feel supported and confident I can do my work of fighting against systems of oppression.” -

Georgina Tenorio Davila, Cohort 13

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Our two-year programming centers liberation through our BIPOC-designed professional development and framework, which includes quarterly Seminars and Affinity Salons; an annual three-day Martinez Summit Retreat; and discount rate to the Network for EdWork's Annual Convening.

1 QUARTERLY SEMINARS

Seminars are single-day workshops that include BIPOC guest speakers, storytellers, and leaders. Sample Seminar topics in the past were:

- What does it mean to be an antiracist BIPOC educator?
- What does actively dismantling systems that perpetuate oppression look like?
- How to create a more liberated and inclusive space for myself and my students to thrive.
- How to practice intentionality and self-care as an educator of color rooted in social justice.

3 ANNUAL CONVENING

The Convening is the annual gathering of BIPOC educators, leaders and white allies committed to dismantling and uprooting systems of oppression within education. The Convening centers mindfulness, culturally affirming guided workshops, reflective engagement, and the power of intentional collective action to liberate educational institutions from racism.

2 QUARTERLY AFFINITY SALONS

Affinity Salons are gatherings where we offer intentional space and time for fellows to reflect on their own growth and progress as BIPOC educators, decide what we give energy to, both in terms of interrupting racism AND in terms of our own learning and healing. These sessions are open to Fellow and non-Fellow BIPOC educators in Washington. White Affinity Salons are also available.

4 ANNUAL MARTINEZ SUMMIT RETREAT

This three-day event is a chance ALL Fellows across Washington State and Cohorts to have dedicated time and space to fully immerse themselves, reflect, and explore their own personal and collective stories. In community, this retreat supports the necessary healing and growth for Fellows to deepen their practice as BIPOC educators committed to social justice. The Summit is a cornerstone of the program.

ABOUT THE NETWORK FOR EDWORK

Network for Edwork brings together BIPOC educators and leaders as well as white leaders in education in order to provide a learning community to help sustain inclusive and equitable schools for all students.

For early-career BIPOC educators who want ongoing professional development and networking opportunities grounded in racial identity development.

A one of a kind affinity-based professional development community, exclusively for BIPOC leaders and educators to dismantle and reimagine a racially just education system.

For white leaders who want to transform their education environments to be more antiracist, relevant, and responsive to BIPOC educators and leaders.

OUR FRAMEWORK

LIBERATION PEDAGOGY

Liberation Pedagogy (LP) is an approach to teaching, leading, and facilitating that asks participants to use self-reflection and vulnerability to recognize and intentionally unlearn/undo dominant cultural norms.

LP offers tools to replace those behaviors with more inclusive ones that are culturally affirming and sustaining. Engaging with decolonizing pedagogies creates collective stamina so we, as a community, can take unapologetic actions to uproot systems of oppression within education.
